

Dear business partner,

In conjunction with the spread of Covid-19, we at Leicher Engineering formed a crisis management team as early as 09.02.2020 in accordance with our Business Continuity Management Manual.

The aim is to minimize the risk of infection for our employees and their families and at the same time to be able to continue our business operations without significant restrictions. We have already implemented or further developed the following measures in particular: Expansion of mobile working for almost all employees; meetings - including internal ones - are held exclusively virtually; our principles of hygiene have been significantly expanded and shared office solutions have been created; clear rules for maintaining a 2m distance in all situations.

What does this mean for you as a business partner?

We continue to assure you a professional and transparent approach in the current situation. We are using our full concentration to secure our operative business. We are in intensive and systematic contact with all our business partners, even though we are currently completely foregoing the otherwise proven personal visits.

Close, high-frequency contact with our worldwide manufacturing plants and logistics partners is essential in this respect. The supply from all countries except Italy is guaranteed. All of our manufacturing plants are producing at a very high level.

The current situation in Italy, however, requires special attention and patience. Our proactively initiated and risk-reducing measures lead to the fact that there are currently no significant restrictions to our ability to supply, even though most of our manufacturing plants in Italy have largely shut down production.

We continue to monitor and communicate very closely.

We are also in constant close contact with our logistics partners and optimize transport routes in order to identify possible delays at an early stage and take appropriate countermeasures. We inform our customers in detail about the latest developments.

As of today, we do not see any serious restrictions in our operating business for which we are responsible. We benefit greatly from our powerful and advanced IT and our high level of digitalization. We assure you that your contacts will continue to be available to you as usual.

Your team from Leicher Engineering GmbH
